City of Burbank Investment Portfolio Report for July 2022 Dated August 30, 2022

Dear City Council Members
Justin Hess, City Manager
Judie Wilke, Assistant City Manager
Jennifer Becker, Financial Services Director
Bob Liu, CFO Burbank Water & Power

This report fulfills City, Youth Endowment Services Fund, Parking Authority, Public Financing Authority, Successor Agency to the Redevelopment Agency and Housing Authority resolutions.

CITY PORTFOLIO OVERVIEW

The City must maintain $101 million in liquidity at all times (maturities within one year plus real estate taxes due from the County in April and December) to meet our projected budgeted expenditures. We currently have $172 million in liquidity, with $63 million in our account at the Local Agency Investment Fund (LAIF), $62 million in investments maturing within a year and $47 million in real estate taxes due in April and December. Higher liquidity levels continue to be maintained in anticipation of future cash outflows.

The City Investment Pool ended July at $479 million, down from June's balance of $507 million. This is primarily due to the $45 million payment to CALPERS. Market value increased to 97.1% July from 96.6% in June. The weighted average yield of the portfolio at the end of the month is 2%.

Credit News:

On August 1, S&P's revised Intel's outlook from stable to negative while affirming its credit rating, stating that "Intel Corp. reported second-quarter fiscal 2022 financial results well short of our expectations due to weakening PC demand, inventory corrections across client and server end markets, and company-specific execution issues. We expect operating results will remain weak over the next year or so and that its technology roadmap may come under pressure or delayed. Therefore, we revised our outlook to negative from stable and affirmed all our ratings on Intel, including our 'A+' issuer credit rating. The negative outlook reflects at least a 1-in-3 chance of a downgrade over the next two years if Intel's business prospects remain challenged due to deteriorating operating performance or technology execution missteps."

MARKET OUTLOOK

The Federal Reserve held its annual economic symposium at Jackson Hole last week. In his policy speech, Fed Chair Jerome Powell said that the central bank must continue raising rates and keep them elevated for some time until inflation is under control. He clarified that "while the lower inflation readings for July are welcome, a single month's improvement falls far short of what the Committee will need to see before we are confident that inflation is moving down." He also acknowledged that unemployment may rise, and the economy may weaken as a result.

“Reducing inflation is likely to require a sustained period of below-trend growth. Moreover, there will very likely be some softening of labor market conditions. While higher interest rates, slower growth, and softer labor market conditions will bring down inflation, they will also bring some pain to households and businesses.” Despite that, he explains the need to act with resolve now as “history shows that the employment costs of bringing down inflation are likely to increase with delay, as high inflation becomes more entrenched in wage and price setting.”

With the Fed unlikely to pivot from its hawkish stance, investors now expect higher rates to persist. While the Fed’s preferred inflation index, the Personal Consumption Expenditures index, came in lower at 6.3% in July, it is still much higher than the Fed’s long-term inflation target of 2%. Strong fiscal spending also continues to further increase the money supply, dampening the intended effects of a contractionary monetary policy. The unemployment rate at 3.5% ties its 53-year low. Job openings still greatly exceeds the number of unemployed individuals seeking work. However, the yield curve inversion continues to signal the risk of recession. Markets are now pricing in another potential 75 bps hike in the Fed’s next meeting in September.

Jobs Gap

Openings continue to exceed the number of unemployed people seeking work.
