City of Burbank Investment Portfolio Report for December 2020 Dated January 26, 2021

Dear City Council Members
Justin Hess, City Manager
Judie Wilke, Assistant City Manager
Jennifer Becker, Interim Financial Services Director
Bob Liu, CFO Burbank Water & Power

This report fulfills City, Youth Endowment Services Fund, Parking Authority, Public Financing Authority, Successor Agency to the Redevelopment Agency and Housing Authority resolutions.

CITY PORTFOLIO OVERVIEW

The City must maintain $96 million in liquidity at all times (maturities within one year plus real estate taxes due from the County in April and December) to meet our projected budgeted expenditures. We currently have $318 million in liquidity, with $225 million in our account at the Local Agency Investment Fund (LAIF), $48 million in investments maturing within a year and $45 million in real estate taxes due in April and December. Higher liquidity levels continue to be maintained in anticipation of future cash outflows.

The City Investment Pool ended December at $466 million, an increase from November's balance of $454 million. Market value slightly decreased to 101.98% in December from 102.15% in November. The weighted average yield of the portfolio at the end of the month is 1.44%, and the total rate of return fiscal year-to-date is 1.57%.

MARKET OUTLOOK

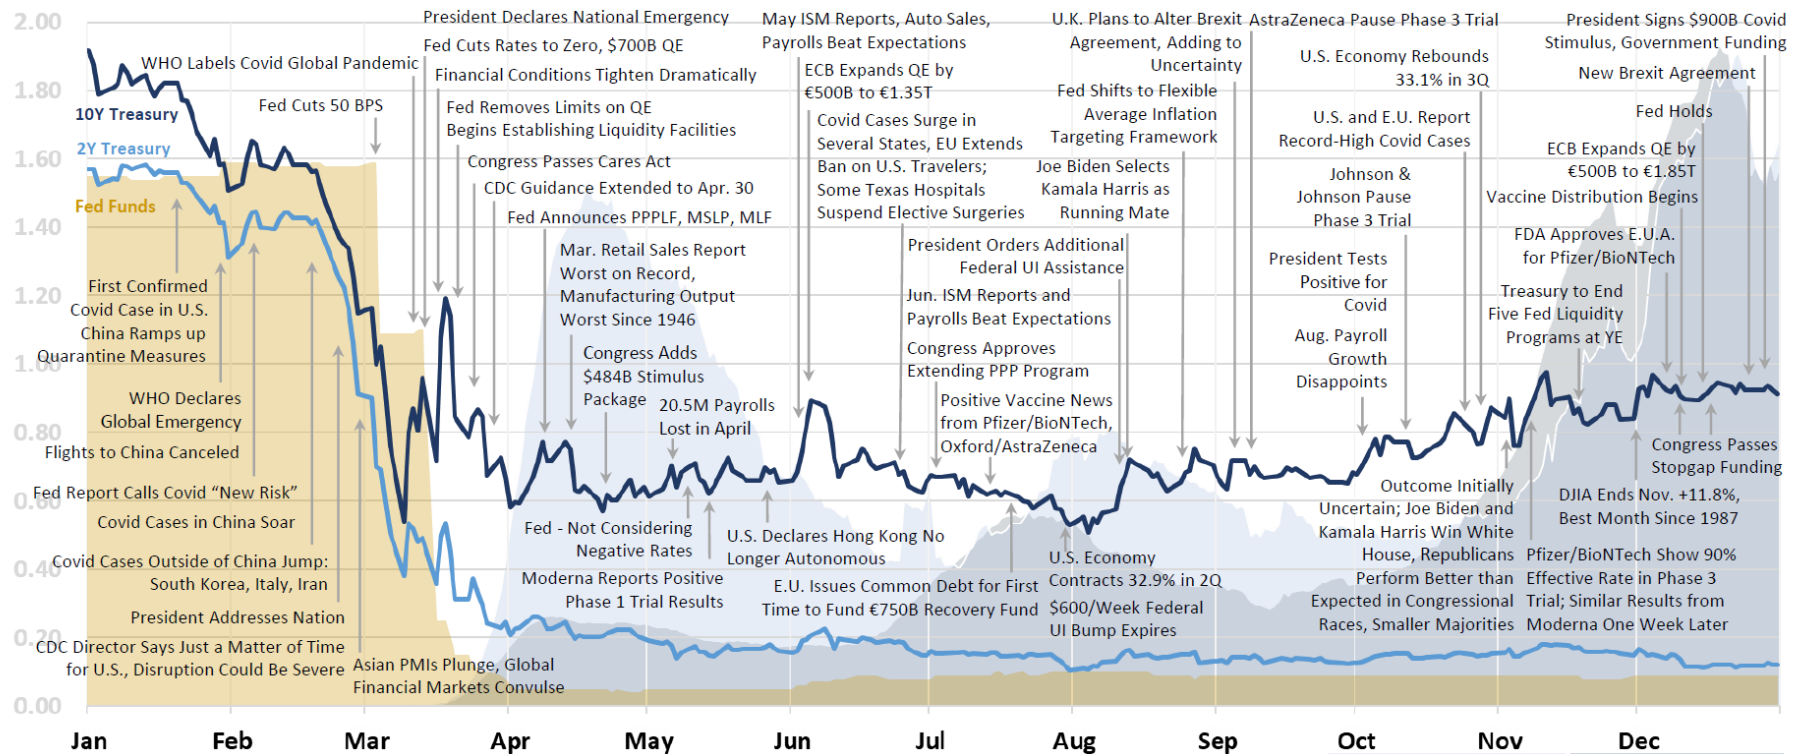

The key to economic recovery this year will be the effectiveness of the virus rollout. Since the US began vaccinations in mid-December, over 23.5 million shots have been distributed. 1.25 million doses per day have been administered on average in the past week. However this still falls short of the goal of 1.5 million doses a day and this rate is still much slower than what experts recommend. It is estimated that at least 70-80% of Americans need to be vaccinated to achieve herd immunity. At the current rate, this would not happen until Fall 2021. With the lack of manufacturing capacity, there is a vaccine shortage and some states have had to cancel or postpone vaccine appointments.

With the Democratic sweep, another round of fiscal stimulus is expected. President Biden has proposed a $1.9 trillion American Rescue Plan that includes additional $1,400 direct stimulus checks and an increase in the federal minimum wage to $15 an hour, among others. The proposal has met with significant pushback and the final cost would likely be lower. Either way, the additional stimulus should boost the economy. However, inflation continues to be a threat as more stimulus is released and as people are able to continue to delay payments on their student loans, rents, and mortgages. As we get closer to herd immunity, the pent-up demand from those who have been able to increase their savings and receive additional income from the government should lead to a surge in consumer spending.

With the Federal Reserve and central banks from around the world continuing to supply cheap money, there are fears of a bubble with asset prices growing significantly beyond underlying fundamentals. Day trading in particular has become widely popular during the pandemic. However, even though market participants are aware that speculation is rampant, there are not a lot of other alternative places to park cash with the low interest rate environment.

The chart to the left shows relevant rates (LAIF, the 12-month moving average of the 2-year treasury, and portfolio current yield) as December 31, 2020, as well as current treasury yields and those from a year ago.

NOTE: Estimates for the interest earned on LAIF's loan to CalPERS (not allocated until just after the end of each quarter) are included in this month's LAIF yield. The effective rate of return published by LAIF was .54%; including an estimate of the bonus accrual for the loan to CalPERS, the yield reflected on the books for December is .64%. The rate of interest charged by LAIF on the CalPERS loan is the Constant Maturity 2-Year Treasury as of the last day of the quarter.
