City of Burbank Investment Portfolio Report for July 2024 Dated August 29, 2024

Dear City Council Members
Justin Hess, City Manager
Courtney Padgett, Assistant City Manager
Jennifer Becker, Financial Services Director
Joe Lillio, CFO Burbank Water & Power

This report fulfills City, Youth Endowment Services Fund, Parking Authority, Public Financing Authority, Successor Agency to the Redevelopment Agency and Housing Authority resolutions.

CITY PORTFOLIO OVERVIEW

The City must maintain $124 million in liquidity at all times (maturities within one year plus real estate taxes due from the County in April and December) to meet our projected budgeted expenditures. We currently have $249 million in liquidity, with $37 million in our account at the Morgan Stanley Institutional Liquidity Fund – Government Portfolio, $92 million in our account at the California Asset Management Program, $69 million in investments maturing within a year and $51 million in real estate taxes due in April and December.

The City Investment Pool ended July at $605 million, down from June's balance of $648 million, primarily due to the $41 million payment to CALPERS in July. Market value came in at 97.9% in July, up from 97.4% in June. The weighted average yield of the portfolio at cost at the end of the month is 3.46%.

Credit News

On August 15, S&P's placed Mars on negative credit watch, while keeping its rating at A+, stating that it follows "Mars' announcement that it has entered into a definitive agreement to acquire Kellanova for a total consideration of $36 billion. Financing details have not been disclosed. We believe the proposed acquisition would substantially increase Mars' leverage." S&P's adds that the action "reflects our expectation that we will likely affirm or lower our ratings on Mars following this transaction. We believe a downgrade could be limited to one notch based on available information. We will seek to resolve the CreditWatch following our review of the financial and business impact of the transaction on Mars' credit profile."

On August 15, Moody's placed Mars on negative credit watch, while keeping its rating at A1, following Mars's announcement that it will acquire Kellanova, stating that "We placed Mars' senior unsecured ratings on review for downgrade because the acquisition is expected to be financed largely with debt and will increase Mars' gross debt/EBITDA meaningfully from a low 2x range (on a Moody's adjusted basis) to a 4x range. In addition, the acquisition presents integration risk given the size and breadth of Kellanova's operations. The combined entity's larger scale, product diversification, expected synergies, and plan to reduce leverage following the acquisition are favorable and provide potential mitigants to the transaction risks.”

On August 16, S&P's downgraded Intel's rating from A- to BBB+, and gave it a negative outlook, stating that they expect “Intel Corp.'s revenue to be weaker than previously forecasted over the next two to three years as the customer spending environment and competitive dynamics in its core business segments continue to be challenged. Only partially mitigating the lower growth trajectory is Intel's plan to implement cost reductions in excess of $10 billion in 2025, inclusive of operating expense reduction and capital spending cuts. We expect these actions to result in positive free operating cash flow (FOCF) beginning in 2025, earlier than our prior expectations by about two years. We view the company's decision to suspend its dividend beginning in fourth quarter 2024 favorably from a credit perspective. The negative outlook reflects Intel's weaker revenue and earnings profile over the near term as it continues to navigate industry headwinds and competitive pressure in its core business segments. Successful execution of its technology roadmap, on-time product launches and the achievement of planned cost reductions would help Intel's credit metrics to return to levels appropriate at the current rating over the next two years.”

MARKET OUTLOOK

Speaking from the annual Jackson Hole Economic Symposium last week, Fed Chair Powell made it clear that the central bank is now ready to cut rates in its upcoming September meeting. “The time has come for policy to adjust. The direction of travel is clear, and the timing and pace of rate cuts will depend on incoming data, the evolving outlook and the balance of risks. We will do everything we can to support a strong labor market as we make further progress toward price stability.” While he did not indicate what size the cut would be, investors mostly believe that this means a 25 basis point cut in each of the Fed's next meetings in September and November, possibly followed by a larger cut in December. Inflation has slowed down significantly with the latest Consumer Price Index coming in at 2.9% for July. While consumer spending is still solid, businesses know that the customer is now seeking value, and some are starting to offer more discounts, deals, or larger portions. With optimism regarding inflation, consumer confidence has also improved, reaching a 6-month high in August.

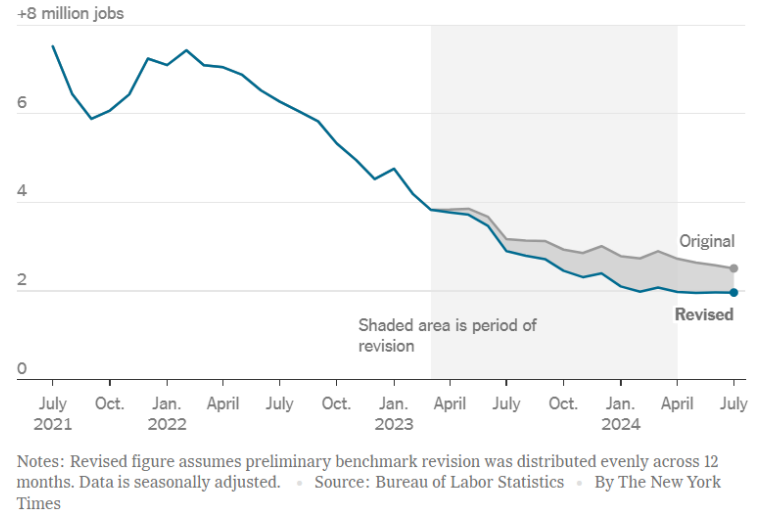

Whether the economy sticks a soft landing depends on the evolution of the job market. Fed Chair Powell explains that, “today, the labor market has cooled considerably from its formerly overheated state. The unemployment rate began to rise over a year ago and is now at 4.3%—still low by historical standards, but almost a full percentage point above its level in early 2023... Job vacancies have fallen, and the ratio of vacancies to unemployment has returned to its pre-pandemic range.” The weakness in the labor market may have also begun earlier than previously thought with a recent adjustment by the Labor Department showing that the economy added 818,000 fewer jobs in 2023 and early 2024 than formerly reported, a downward revision of about 28%. Nevertheless, the layoff rate remains below the average from 2015 to 2019, while hiring rates have only recently dipped below the average from the same time period. It remains to be seen whether the unemployment rate will continue to tick up similar to other periods in the past with prolonged unemployment.

US Consumer Confidence Rises to a Six-Month High

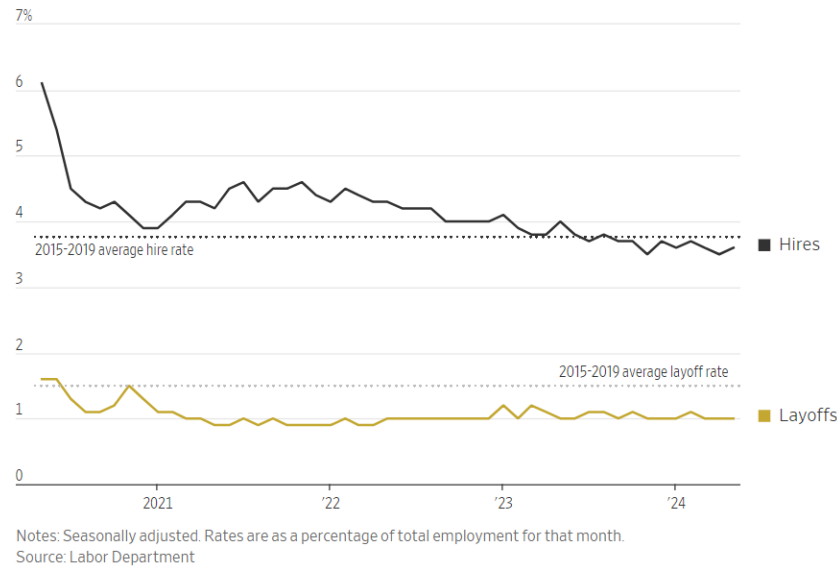

Consumers' optimism about the economy offset labor market views

Change in jobs from a year earlier

Layoff and hiring rates

Periods since 1950 when unemployment was lower than 4% for at least six months
