City of Burbank Investment Portfolio Report for September 2024 Dated October 29, 2024

Dear City Council Members
Justin Hess, City Manager
Courtney Padgett, Assistant City Manager
Jennifer Becker, Financial Services Director
Joe Lillio, CFO Burbank Water & Power

This report fulfills City, Youth Endowment Services Fund, Parking Authority, Public Financing Authority, Successor Agency to the Redevelopment Agency and Housing Authority resolutions.

CITY PORTFOLIO OVERVIEW

The City must maintain $124 million in liquidity at all times (maturities within one year plus real estate taxes due from the County in April and December) to meet our projected budgeted expenditures. We currently have $282 million in liquidity, with $37 million in our account at the Morgan Stanley Institutional Liquidity Fund – Government Portfolio, $119 million in our account at the California Asset Management Program, $75 million in investments maturing within a year and $51 million in real estate taxes due in April and December.

The City Investment Pool ended September at $614 million, up from August's balance of $601 million. Market value came in at 98.9% in September, up from 98.4% in August. The weighted average yield of the portfolio at cost at the end of the month is 3.47%.

MARKET OUTLOOK

With the US election a week away, Treasury volatility is almost at a 12-month high as the market continues to analyze the risks from potential policy outcomes. Expanded fiscal spending, trade wars, and an increase in US debt levels could lead to inflation coming back, and with that, the Fed may then keep rates higher for longer. Treasury yields have also risen in the past month as better economic data point to a resilient economy and increased chances of a soft landing. Retail sales for September rose higher than expected, confirming that consumer demand and spending remain strong. US consumer confidence in October increased the most since 2021, as respondents feel increasingly optimistic about the economy and the labor market, even as job openings have now fallen to its lowest level since 2021, and layoffs increasing.

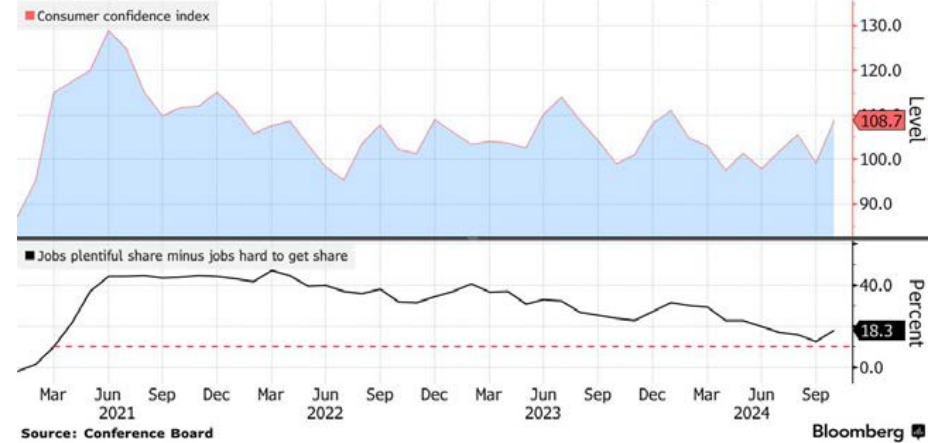

Surveys have shown that voters consider the economy their top concern in this election, and the continued mixed signals and responses have emphasized how much the pandemic, inflation, and strong labor market in recent years have impacted people in different ways. For example, an analysis of wage growth has shown that per-capita after-tax income which includes not only salaries and wages but also tips and other sources of income has grown over 9% since 2019 after adjusting for inflation. However, median weekly earnings which include only full-time workers' income are only up 2.5% over the same period. In general, wages have risen the fastest for lower income workers, while wages have barely increased for middle- and upper-income workers, and even stagnated for those in many industries. Median weekly earnings, while above pre-pandemic levels, is still below its pre-pandemic trend line. These averages also do not paint a complete picture as most of the wage gains were captured by those who switched jobs for much higher pay, while those who stayed in the same job may have experienced more modest increases. Similarly, inflation has impacted people in different ways depending on their spending needs.

Treasury Yields Climb Sharply Amid Better Economic Data

US Consumer Confidence Rises On Labor Market Closely watched labor metric widened for first time since January

US Job Openings Fall to Lowest Level Since Early 2021 The number of layoffs rose to the highest level since 2023

Change in inflation-adjusted weekly earnings by wage level, 2019-2024

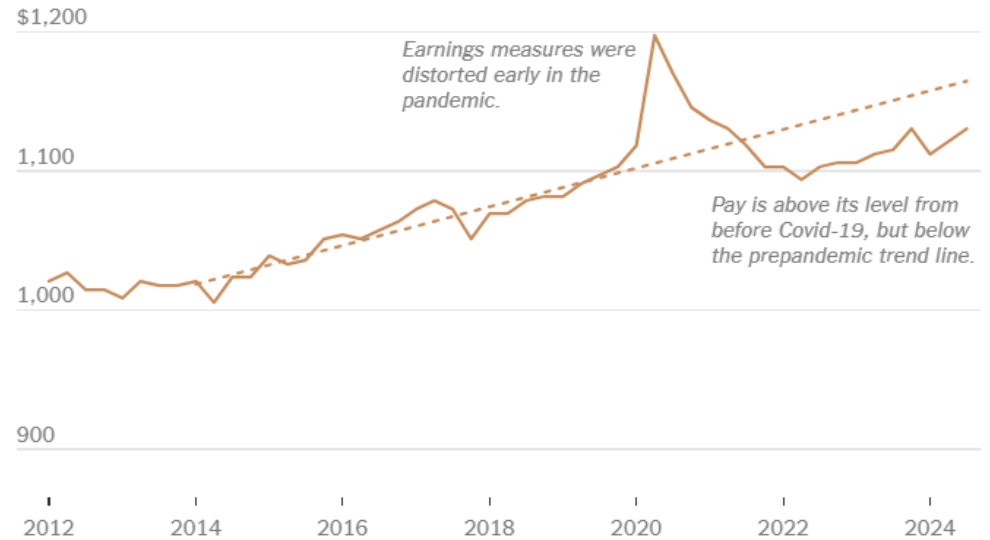

Note: Change is measured in the third quarter of each year, not seasonally adjusted. Source: Bureau of Labor Statistics • By The New York Times

Change since end of 2019 in various earnings measures

Notes: After-tax income is per capita and excludes government transfer payments and is adjusted for inflation by the Personal Consumption Expenditures Price Index. Hourly earnings are for production and nonsupervisory workers and are adjusted for inflation by the CPI-W. Median weekly earnings are for full-time workers and are adjusted for inflation using the CPI-U. Average weekly earnings are for all workers and are also adjusted using the CPI-U. All series are monthly except for median weekly earnings, which are quarterly. • Sources: Bureau of Labor Statistics, Bureau of Economic Analysis, Federal Reserve Bank of New York • By The New York Times

Median weekly earnings vs. prepandemic trend

Notes: Earnings are shown in 2023 dollars and are for full-time workers. Data is seasonally adjusted. Trend line is based on 2014 to 2019 data. • Source: Bureau of Labor Statistics • By The New York Times
